"I chose belleGlass HP because of its wear resistance..."

Steven Glassman, DDS
Regional Director
ExperDent
New York, NY
Client Since 1998

This patient is a young woman in her early 20's who was referred to my office by another patient because of pain on both the UR and UL. We began by taking thorough records including radiographs, mounted study models, twelve 35 mm color photos, a perio chart, and intra oral photos. A TX plan was then established.

In this case the old amalgam fillings had begun to break down and required replacement. Because of their size and because she wanted esthetic restorations we chose indirect restorations, specifically belleGlass HP indirect inlays. I chose belleGlass HP because of its wear resistance and its polishability. It was Reality's number one choice for indirect resin restorations.

When working with a great laboratory like Town & Country Dental Studios these restorations disappear in the mouth. Needless to say my patient was very happy.
